Verdict: From Dusk Till Dawn With Infection

Story: Peelters starts as we meet the colourful characters in the strip club, owner Blue Jean (Walker), bouncer Remy (Darko), bartender Tony (Dent) and strippers Frankie (Komagata), Licorice (Peters), Baby (Wallin) and Tina (Gomez).

With this being the closing night the banter between the staff and customers is at a high with local miners attending for the very first time, but it isn't long until the miners show the signs of their infection with violent consequences. Add in the bad boy son Logan (Loos) we watch as the group of survivors must face ravenous enemies they can't explain just why they keep coming.

Thoughts on Peelters

Characters/Performance – Blue Jean as the owner of the strip club works because she also has a past in sports with great respect from her staff, customers and even the law, all I could see was a female Sam Malone from Cheers. Remy is your typical bouncer who is clearly the biggest physical threat within the bar. Logan as the bad boy criminal son of Blue Jean is character that is the screw up but also the rebel without a cause. The strippers all make for a laugh through the film each making sure they are different from the other.

Performance wise I feel everyone is good, Wren Walker is the star of the show while everyone else does their job well enough to make their characters involved in the story.

Story – The story is easy to follow, with it following the idea that the closing night of a strip club becomes a battle to survive against zombie like creatures. This does create a new origin behind the infection which does feel fresh but the core of this story is easy enough to understand without testing us with any twists or turns along the way.

Horror – We have a nice check list here, Gore

Blood

Over the top kills

Big Body Count

No One Being Safe

Infection causing Ravenous Side

this has plenty of material for all the gore horror fans out there to enjoy.

Settings – The whole film is set within the strip club which helps us identify with all of the characters in the films and also explain why the characters would be out late at night in the club in the middle of nowhere.

Special Effects – Here is the potential weak point of the film where we get to see the certain moments of special effects looking very low budget.

HORROR 8	THRILLER 8	DIRECTOR 8
STORY 8	SETTINGS 9	SPECIAL EFFECTS 6

Final Thoughts – Sometimes you just want a film to be fun, this does that on all the levels you need it to be. We get laughs when needed without being a flat out comedy or gore fest.

Overall: Sit back and enjoy the blood bath.
